A change for the best

This issue of the Herald and the following issue are complimentary. They come to you free.
And this is a sort of a "shopper" -- mainly a guide to merchant values and sales in town.
It comes to you as "an in-betweeny": It's in the middle of our converting over to a weekly.

On Wednesday, July 26, a new, improved weekly edition of the paper will commence.

Since the paper turned bi-weekly, after being a daily for some time -- we have received all sorts of compliments.

People from all walks of life have told us they've enjoyed the paper much more as a bi-weekly and an increasing number have been urging us to go weekly -- and be still better.

Well, that's what we're going to do.

There is more time to give thoughtful preparation on a weekly basis and it gives columnists and other community writers a real chance to do even better work.

Part of our staff is on holiday and the rest are busy preparing for the big change over. Please bear with us as we prepare for the big change.

Starting with Wednesday, July 26 we will be going all out to bring you the finest community paper in B.C.

And, of course, we know the people of Terrace want to play a part in making this paper a true voice -- a mirror of everyone's thoughts and feelings.

Many writers, poets, journalists, artists and photographers first got their start by contributing to their local papers. We hope to become still more of a forum for local talent in Terrace and district.

And we know there are plenty of people here with something to say -- something to contribute to this community through their paper.

Let us continue to work together to make the Herald an expression of the intensely varied, lively life-style of northwestern British Columbia.

A huge parabolic dish, weighing 91 tons, was hoisted 90 feet aloft a giant pedestal at Allan Park, Ont. recently, completing an important stage in the settin up of Canada's satellite communications system.

Save lives: donate your blood

Each person's blood is one of our basic types: A, B, AB, or O. Blood type, a characteristic inherited from parents, like eye and hair color, is determined by the red cells.

Laboratory tests easily determine the blood types of patient and donor before every transfusion to ensure that they are compatible.

Your Red Cross blood donor clinic will tell you which type you are when you give blood. Some types are rarer than others -- the Red Cross needs them all.

Out of 100 donors 46 have O blood; 42 have A blood; 9 have B blood; 3 have AB blood and of these 85 have RH positive and 15 have Rh negative.

Which type are you? Find out at the Red Cross blood donor clinic in Terrace at the Terrace Hotel, on August 3 and 4.

The Red Cross Blood Transfusion service is going into its twenty-fifth year in Canada with the first blood donor clinic held in Vancouver, British Columbia in 1947.

Since then the need for blood and blood products has grown enormously as surgical and medical techniques have developed and populations in our communities have increased.

Blood donors have to retire at age 65 and of course more and more willing and devoted donors are reaching that age each year -- others are on the move and for many other reasons there is a constant turn over in most clinics. It has been suggested that each one of us be responsible for another donor when we attend a clinic. In this way the new donors that are so necessary to fill in the gaps left by retiring or "on the move" donors will keep the count up to quota at the blood bank.

To illustrate the growth of this life-giving service it now takes 1900 donors a week or approximately 400 donors a day to take care of the 30,000 patients a year in B.C.-Yukon who have need of blood. This increase of patients comes about also in the use of blood fractions, for example, haemophiliacs use 1-7,000 units of Factor 8 a year. This is another modern use for blood among the many that have been discovered through research to aid and extend life. If you are between the ages of 18 and 65, or with parents consent, boys may donate at 17, and are in good health, you can contribute to this miracle fluid. Give life -- give blood.

Meet your Herald carrier boy

Allan Chapman, this week's paper boy of the week, is the Herald's carrier for Braun's Island and he's really quite a fellow. Recently during the flood activity of the Skeena, Allan kept right on delivering his papers even though people were moving out of Braun's Island due to the high water. Allan has been with the Herald for about ten months and the twelve year old says he likes delivering papers. He's saving all his money for the start of school for supplies and clothing and everything else you need when you head back to the classroom.

Listing his hobbies as models and hockey Allan would like to play in the Terrace Minor Hockey League this winter.

The Chapman's have lived in Terrace for nearly five years now, moving here from Kitimat. Allan was born in Port Simpson and has lived all his life in the Pacific North-West area.

Housewives can train for jobs

Canada's only woman MP, Grace MacInnis of Vancouver-Kingsway, today claimed a major victory in the fight for the equality of women with the acceptance of her amendment to the manpower retraining act defining housekeeping as bona fide employment.

This fundamental change in the Adult Occupational Training Act of 1967 will mean that women engaged in domestic duties will have the same right to manpower training and training allowances as men and women with paid jobs. Men who look after the home will have the same rights.

"I am delighted that after three years of prodding about the need of recognizing this fundamental social and economic role of women that I have convinced the government," Mrs. MacInnis said.

The correction of this injustice to women employed in the home went almost unnoticed when the Minister of Manpower and Immigration, Bryce MacKasey, accepted Mrs. MacInnis' amendment in the Commons.

Mrs. MacInnis has introduced similar amendments on several occasions in recent years, but had been thwarted each time by government opposition to the change.

A pair of safety goggles will prevent those tiny bits of paint from destroying and causing permanent damage to the delicate tissues of the eyes.

The amendment means that both urban and rural housewives will qualify for all forms of manpower training assistance despite the fact they may never have been employed in the traditional labor market. Mrs. MacInnis urged all women who feel they could benefit themselves and their families through manpower training to take advantage of the new provision as soon as it is proclaimed.

Cote - Accountant chairman

Norbert Cote, Terrace, was re-elected chairman of the North Coast, Bulkley Chapter of the Certified General Accountants Association of B.C., at a directors' meeting at the Lakelse Hotel on Saturday, July 8.

Also elected were Don Mason, Smithers as Vice-Chairman, Donna Kadar, Kitimat as Secretary Treasurer. "Public Relations" will be handled by Philip Davies of Terrace and education by Frank Banducci, Kitimat.

Mrs. Douglas at UBC

Mrs. Norval Douglas left Terrace in early July to attend the University of British Columbia in Vancouver.

Nautical stamps from Britain

In view of the sea-girt nature of the United Kingdom it would be surprising if many stamps did not have a nautical flavor. Although pictorial stamps are comparatively recent, the nautical element in British stamps goes back quite a long time and a large collection can be assembled on this theme.

The high value stamps of the late Victorian and Edwardian series, from 1882 to 1913, had an anchor as the watermark, while the 1/2d and 1/2d stamps of the reign of George V had a pair of dolphins flanking the king's portrait, alluding to Britain's Maritime interests. The high value stamps of that reign featured Britannia in a naval chariot drawn by three seahorses.

Heraldry of this sort gave way to more functional symbolism in the 2 1/2d stamp of 1946 celebrating the return to peace after the Second World War. A three-funnelled liner was outlined in the lower right hand corner of the design, along with outlines of a tractor, house and factory to symbolise commerce, agriculture, reconstruction and industry respectively.

The high value definitive stamps of 1951, however, provided the first example of an actual ship. HMS Victory, Nelson's flagship at the Battle of Trafalgar, was featured on the 2s 6d stamp. The 5s stamp of the same series depicted the White Cliffs of Dover, with a sailing dinghy and a fishing smack in the foreground. A beached fishing vessel was also shown on the 2s 6d stamp of 1955 featuring Carrickfergus Castle in Northern Ireland.

Shipyards in Belfast were the subject of the 4d stamp in a series of 1964 marking the 20th International Geographical Congress in London. An oil tanker on its way upstream to the refineries at Grangemouth was shown on the 3d stamp of September 1964 celebrating the opening of the Forth Road Bridge, while a modern sea freighter was featured on the 9d stamp of 1967 honoring the European Free Trade Area. For the 2s 6d stamp marking the 700th anniversary of Simon de Montfort's Parliament, Wenceslas Hollar's panoramic view of the Houses of Parliament at Westminster was chosen in 1965. In the foreground can be seen some of the barges which constituted much of the river traffic, then as now.

In 1966 stamps spanned almost a thousand years of maritime technology. The 6d stamp in the Battle of Hastings series depicted a section of the Bayeux Tapestry showing typical Norman galleys of that period. The single large sail and the high carved prow were distinctive features of the ships which the Normans inherited from their Viking ancestors. At the other extreme, chronologically, was the 1s 3d stamp in the set paying tribute to British technology. This featured the Saunders-Roe SRN-6 hovercraft, the latest in a line which began with the SRN-1, the first to cross the English Channel in 1959.

Sir Francis Chichester's yacht Gipsy Moth IV appeared on a 1s 9d stamp released in 1967 in honor of the single-handed world voyage. Captain James Cook's converted Whitby collier, HM Brig Endeavour, was featured with his signature, on one of the Anniversaries stamps of 1968 to mark the bicentenary of his first epic voyage to the Pacific.

Then, in January 1969, six stamps were issued with the theme of British shipping through the ages. Three 9d stamps, printed se-tenant, featured an Elizabethan galleon, a 17th century East Indiaman and the famous clipper ship Cutty Sark, now preserved at Greenwich. Two jumbo-sized 1s stamps featured the SS, Great Britain, the greatest feat of marine engineering in the 19th century, and the RMS Mauretania, one of the great ocean liners of pre-war days. The 5d stamp of the series depicted the RMS Queen Elizabeth 2, the new Cunard liner built on Clydebank. The diminutive Mayflower, which took the Pilgrims to America in 1620 was shown on the 1s 6d Anniversaries stamp of 1970.

The latest stamp with a nautical theme is the 7 1/2p in the Anniversaries series issued on April 26. The stamp, designed by wegner, shows a coastguard in early 19th century uniform against the background of a stormy sea and a ship in distress. The Coastguard service, founded in 1822 as an anti-smuggling force, was placed under Admiralty control in 1856 to make better provision for coastal defence. In 1923 it was transferred to the Board of Trade (now the Department of Trade and Industry) and is now administered primarily as a life-saving agency. Its lookout posts and coastguard stations maintain a constant weather watch and act in conjunction with the Royal National Lifeboat Institution, the Royal Navy and the RAF in co-ordinating rescue services. An all too important part of the Coastguard duties nowadays is the check on oil pollution round the coasts.

This stamp complements the set of three issued in 1963 in honour of the Ninth International Lifeboat Conference in Edinburgh and featuring air-sea rescue (2 1/2d), the Aldeburgh clinker-built lifeboat of 1900 (4d) and a group of lifeboatmen in oilskins and life-jackets

Different drummer

A half-hour colour film, titled Different Tune, Different Drummer, has been completed for the British Columbia Government Committee on Drug, Tobacco and Alcohol Abuse, and is ready for showing by teachers, parent organizations, and service clubs who are interested in combatting drug abuse.

Committee Chairman, the Hon. Donald Brothers, Minister of Education, said, "We believe this picture is different and exciting because it approaches the problem, for the first time we feel, through the eyes of young people who are on the threshold of danger."

The most vital factor in making this film was the creation of a mood of authenticity and then sustaining that mood. Different Tune, Different Drummer is available for viewing by interested organizations who may make bookings for this film by writing the Audio-Visual Services Branch, Dept. of Education, 1726 West Broadway, Vancouver, B.C.

Proposed Upgrading of
Stewart-Cassiar Highway with connections

Stewart - Cassiar Highway links us with Alaska Highway

OTTAWA - The Stewart-Cassiar Highway to be opened this Fall, will provide a direct road link from British Columbia Highway No. 16 at Terrace, B.C. to Mile 645 on the Alaska Highway, just west of Watson Lake, Y.T.

With improvement and the addition of two subsidiary roads, it could be of vital importance to the economic development of Northwestern Canada, Transport Minister Don Jamieson said today.

The road was originally started under the Roads to Resources program, with a Federal contribution of $7.5 million, for the purpose of shipping asbestos from Cassiar, B.C. to a port at Stewart, north of Prince Rupert.

This route will reduce by some 250 miles the present road distance for travel between the south and the Yukon Territory or Alaska for motor vehicle traffic originating or terminating in large parts of British Columbia in Western United States. It will also mean that tourists to the Yukon and Alaska will not have to re-trace their route on their return journey southward, a fact that can be expected to have a significant impact on the tourist trade.

The value of this route in broadening the transportation capability in the northwestern B.C.-Yukon area can be substantially increased and improved by construction of two new connecting links with existing highways. One would be built from the highway at Nass River, south of Stewart, to Hazelton on B.C. Highway No. 16, a distance of approximately 42 miles, the other would be constructed from Dease Lake to Atlin in the northwest corner of the province, which is a distance of some 100 miles.

Development of the two proposed road links would not only engender considerable new traffic by opening up natural resource development in the areas they would traverse, but would also provide a much shorter and more economic road route from the southwest to the Yukon Territory and Alaska than is now offered by the Alaska Highway.

The improved highway, including the Dease Lake-Atlin road would offer the additional potential for possible future U.S. direct links into the Alaska Panhandle, to coastal points - such as Juneau, Wrangell and Ketchikan.

Beware -- fake cancer cures

With a disease as common as cancer, it is inevitable that many persons, some of them well-meaning, should advertise miraculous cures.

Their claims may be impressive until one remembers that there is no evidence that the ailment diagnosed by them was cancer. These treatments can be exceedingly dangerous by causing delay in seeking proper medical advice.

A practitioner whose "cure" has any or all of the following characteristics should be suspected.

- His treatment is available only from himself.

- His treatment bears his own name or that of a high-sounding research organization.

- His treatment is advertised.

- He claims he is being persecuted by the "Medical Trusts".

- His "cured" patients and greatest supporters have only his word for it that they had cancer in the first place.

- He discourages or refuses consultation with reputable physicians.

The fight against cancer is carried on by a vast team of surgeons, radio-therapists, internists, pathologists, gynecologists and physicists, as well as technicians and other supporting staff.

But the fight is far from won, and fresh recruits are needed for the battle.

If you are keen, imaginative and dedicated to the welfare of mankind, there is a place for you in the ranks of cancer fighters.

Whether you take part as a future member of a professional team, as a volunteer, or purely as an individual, here are some ways you may help.

- By remembering the facts you have read about cancer and acting upon them.

- By helping to dispel some of the old-fashioned superstition and taboos connected with cancer by open and frank discussion.

- By developing in yourself a sensible attitude towards all disease and realizing that your doctor's office is the place to go when anything abnormal appears.

The idea that cancer can be prevented is not new.

In 1775 Sir Percival Pott of England showed that chimney sweeps' cancer, prevalent at that time in young boys who actually climbed into chimneys to clean them, could be prevented by reducing the boy's exposure to soot and by regular washing of his clothes and his body.

In more recent times an excessive number of bone cancers was noted among painters of luminous watch dials who, while painting with a radioactive substance, touched the paint brushes to their lips and thereby introduced the material into their bodies. Here again correction of the occupational hazard resulted in the prevention of cancer.

Today there is a vast amount of evidence to show that many types of cancer can be prevented by avoiding certain agents in our environment.

In the development of industrial processes, it has occasionally been discovered that new chemicals may be capable of causing cancer, and although not all persons exposed to these substances develop cancer, rigid precautions have been taken to eliminate all possible risks.

This aspect of cancer prevention in which industry plays the major role, is generally supervised by a department of occupational health or industrial hygiene in each province.

Pamphlets and information about cancer can be obtained by writing to: B.C. and Yukon Division, Canadian Cancer Society, 968 West Eighth Avenue, Vancouver 9, B.C.

Our new "Fleet Commander" radio-telephone is not only one of the most flexible on the market...

The Fleet Commander, designed to serve large or small fleet operators, can be installed in any type of vehicle - under the dash, the seat, or in the trunk. It's small, reliable, solid state, and an external speaker provides strong clear reception for noisy locations. It can be equipped to handle up to 8 channels and there is a choice of handset or microphone. It's tough - designed for the most rugged conditions but when it needs repairs, prompt service is available at our service centre nearest your operating area. There are 50 located throughout the province. It's inexpensive - each mobile unit costs just a little over $1 a day. Installation charges vary depending on the type of installation and the number of channels required. For more information, call our Marketing Department. Soon.

Wooden wheels then, steel tracks now... both from Caterpillar

In the early 1900s, farm tractors in California ran on huge hardwood wheels. But as machines got bigger, the wheels got bigger, until some reached 7½ feet in diameter. One machine, like this one with three wheels on each side, had an overall width of 46 feet!

Farmers wanted more powerful tractors but weight and ground pressure made size a problem. The solution for more compact power came when the Holt Manufacturing Co. (later Caterpillar Tractor Co.) successfully tested the first practical track-type tractor in 1904.

Wooden wheels and the first crawler are a far cry from Caterpillar undercarriage today. Extreme service components, lifetime lubricated rollers, bolt-on sprockets and sealed tracks are today's results of Caterpillar's years of research. Still the search goes on—for better metals, new component shapes, new sizes.

Caterpillar's research, its experience and expertise give tractor owners today's best value in long service life and low operating cost. Supported by Finning's large parts inventories, capable parts specialists, Custom Track Service and province-wide coverage, Cat undercarriage is today's best value. As it was in 1904.

CONSTANCE SHARPE

AQUARIUS

Draw a deep breath and reflect over past experiences. For there may be a valuable lesson to be learned. Where the young are concerned, romance could be specially appealing. But they must curb impetuosity so as to counteract the risk of repenting at leisure.

PISCES

A good week for taking a calculated risk provided you judge it to be worthwhile. You may find your services to be much in demand at present, both in the home and outside the home. And your suggestions will be found to be most acceptable.

ARIES

You may have to solve a domestic problem of some kind. But this happens to be a very good week for new initiatives, and you will find the solution. Romance could be lively and forthcoming. A new attachment may be quickly formed, and this could possibly be the source of a dilemma.

TAURUS

A possible delay in communications. But don't let this worry you or spoil your enjoyment of this week's good aspects. If on vacation, whether you spend your holiday at home or abroad you will extract equal satisfaction. All the same you may end by concluding that there's no place like home!

GEMINI

It's being so cheerful that keeps you going. So, banish dull care and get on with the art of living. There could be quite a deal to entertain you at present, if you put yourself in the right mood. Romantic imaginings will colour the thoughts of the young, while revived interests will spur into action the more mature.

CANCER

Gloomy thoughts will not help matters. But these should be only momentary. New interests will replace the old, and all is ready for a new step forward. Push forward with new plans, and make the home the main centre for all your purposes.

LEO

Occupationally this may seem a dull sort of week. But if you happen to be on vacation it should be another story. Travel is favoured, and could be interesting and rewarding. Also the initiative lies with you. So see to it that you do something about it.

VIRGO

A friend may pose a problem. But in this matter you could be of great assistance. But keep your mind on the job while you are at work, for it is quite likely that a surprise opportunity could put in an appearance.

LIBRA

The lighter you keep your spirits the more you will enjoy this week's offerings. Young lovers in particular will enjoy themselves. And some who are unattached may suddenly find themselves to be very much attached.

SCORPIO

A week in which initiative should pay dividends. Whether your work is creative or practical, the products may be well sought after, and opportunity too should be in the air. This is not the time for new planning, but for making do with what you have got. So spread the word around.

SAGITTARIUS

Collections may seem to be on the slow side, but that will not prevent you from making money if you have the inclination. Quite a week too for courtship and emotional exchanges. And you may find opportunity too to take an excursion on the side. It is a week which favours out of doors.

CAPRICORN

Your optimism is supported, particularly in matters of personal choice. With Jupiter in your ascendant there should be glittering prizes to be won. Quite an opportunity week if you strike at the right moment, even if you have to grasp time by the forelock.

Davis Leather introduces Sylsuede, a fully water repellent leather for ladies' high boots, snow boots, cowboy boots, casual shoes, golf and sport shoes and dress shoes.

Sylsuede-High fashion practical

The look of the year is SUEDE. Women are belted, buckled, bagged and booted in suede in all colours of the rainbow. It's great to keep in style, but the important thing, is to be practical too. Today's high styles demand the selection of fashionable accessories to complement a woman's wardrobe, but these accessories must be kept in tip-top shape just as a wardrobe, and they should last a long time. Many women admire suede accessories and fashions at a distance from outside the store window but are hesitant to buy a suede item because of the meticulous care that is needed to keep it new and fresh-looking all the time. And this is especially true of suede footwear. Constant brushing, spraying with a treatment to prevent stains and spotting. It's just too much bother and expense. Here's an answer to that problem. Davis Leather, Kingston, Ontario introduces SYLSUEDE, a silicone-treated suede leather for use in the manufacture of high fashion footwear. Footwear made with SYLSUEDE is available in a wide range of colours and can be manufactured into all types of footwear for the entire family: women's snow boots, dress shoes, casual shoes and men's and children's winter boots, golf shoes and sport shoes. SYLSUEDE leather is treated with a silicone process that surrounds each fibre with a silicone film, but without filling the pores, so the leather still 'breathes'... and SYLSUEDE leather is water repellent.

In the summer, rain rolls off. In the winter, snow kicks off. No more worries about spotting and unsightly salt stains. And goodbye to rubbers for the kids and Dad. You can sing through the year in SYLSUEDE all-weather footwear. Feet stay comfortably warm and dry. SYLSUEDE won't spot or crack and remains new-looking. SYLSUEDE is all-weather footwear for the entire family, for all occasions and all seasons.

July is Salad Month

July is Salad Month across Canada, and British Columbia's vegetable and fruit producers are turning the spotlight on their own produce - some of the finest in the country.

Canadians eat an average of 350 pounds of vegetables and fruit per person a year, or almost one pound a day. Producers want to see this total pushed up to 400 pounds a year. In an effort to boost consumption of salad items, promotional displays will be exhibited in super markets across the province this month.

Vegetable and fruit production is a major industry in B.C., one which returns millions of dollars to the economy. Production of leafy greens alone

Vegetable and fruit production is a major industry in B.C., one which returns millions of dollars to the economy. Production of leafy greens alone in the Fraser Valley accounts for a $2.6 million return to the farmers, and fruit farming and root crops pushes the return higher.

Additionally agricultural experts say there is a good potential for a substantial export market for B.C. salad production.

July is the peak production time of the year for salad items, and the activity is concentrated in the Fraser Valley where 90 per cent of the leafy greens are produced.

In 1971 the Fraser Valley marketed 5,900 tons of head lettuce, 15½ tons of leaf lettuce, 21½ tons of butter and red lettuce, 262½ tons of romaine lettuce, and 84 tons of endive lettuce.

The lettuce production alone for 1971 returned $810,000 to the Fraser Valley farmers.

In other salad production, Fraser Valley farmers produced 1,920 tons of celery for a return of $241,000; 930 tons of green onions for a return of $222,000; 840 tons of bunch radish for a return of $153,000 and 1,500 tons of cauliflower for a return of $288,000.

In addition, Fraser Valley farmers harvest bunch beans, broccoli, green beans, brussel sprouts, parsley, peas, spinach, vegetable marrow, savoy cabbage, corn, field cucumbers, leeks, and various types of squash.

Salads, however, incorporate the whole gamut of vegetables and fruits that are produced in the province, and the peaches, cherries, apricots, apples and pears grown in the Okanagan areas much a part of salad month as Fraser Valley lettuce.

Additionally, the root crops, potatoes, turnips and carrots, form an integral part of many salad dishes. The total B.C. production of salad items is more than enough to meet the needs of the province, and while farmers only export some 4 per cent of their total crop at present, experts predict that it is only a matter of time before exports are significantly increased.

"There are no ifs and buts about it," says Don Fisher, markets officer for the Vancouver area, fruit and vegetable division of the Department of Agriculture. "Our exports could be substantially higher."

Fisher doesn't mince words when he describes B.C.'s salad production. "We have a terrific potential to sell to the rest of Canada. None can compete with our price and quality. Our lettuce is as fine a lettuce as you can get anywhere on the continent. Our green onions and radishes are the best, bar none. And our celery and cauliflower is all beautiful."

Fisher points out that B.C. salad produce is the first to hit the market place in Canada, and therefore could be exported to the Prairie provinces before Prairie crops could be gathered.

At present he says some large cities, such as Winnipeg, are meeting their salad needs by importing from California. "We could supply them with salad produce which is both cheaper in cost and better in quality."

The Additive Alarm

Chemicals in our foods! Don't panic! Salt, water, vinegar and sugar - common enough products - are all chemicals, and serve a useful purpose in our food as do chemical additives.

USED: To improve texture and stability. Stabilizers retard the settling of particles in some liquids like chocolate in chocolate milk. Emulsifiers aid in the dispersion of one liquid in another, like oil in vinegar in salad dressings.

Thickeners provide added body to cheese spreads and gravies. To preserve - The oldest methods of preserving foods are smoking, pickling, salting and sun drying. We still use these methods today besides using other chemical preserving additives: - to control the growth of yeast, bacteria and mold in cereals, baked goods and dairy products; - to prevent the rancidity of fats; - to increase shelf life, enabling our foods to hold their flavour and quality during periods of transportation and storage.

IS THE USE OF ADDITIVES CONTROLLED?

The Health Protection Branch decides: What - additives can be used Where - in what foods Why - for what purpose How - in what amount

Although one gallon of a substance may be dangerous, two drops may not be harmful.

Limiting the quantity of additives allowed is one way to ensure their safe use. Government scientists decide if an additive will be permitted to be used and in what quantities only after careful study of the results of many tests to determine any potential harm.

If evidence indicates an additive might be harmful, a manufacturer will not be permitted to use it.

Lighting with fluorescents

Fluorescent lamps have been a familiar light source in commercial establishments such as stores, factories and offices since the 30's. Later on fluorescent lighting gained in popularity for home use, primarily because of their versatility and efficiency.

Lighting experts at Canadian General Electric caution home owners when purchasing a fluorescent lamp to check to make sure that they have bought a 'home fluorescent' and not an industrial lamp.

Industrial fluorescents are ideal for industrial purposes but their colour-rendering qualities leave a great deal to be desired in the home atmosphere where warmer shades are required. 'Home fluorescents' utilize a richer, phosphorous coating which allows the light to appear in the warmer tones. The coating on the 'home fluorescent' lamp identifies its light as being deluxe warm white.

Residential lighting with fluorescents can take many forms. Cornice lighting utilizes a cornice board, about 6 inches in depth, positioned at the junction of the ceiling and wall, shielding the fluorescents from your eye sight. The light is actually directed downward on the wall's surface, making it ideal in the lighting and dramatization of drapes and wall hangings.

High and low wall brackets and valances are other variations of structural lighting that utilize fluorescent lamps. In these applications the shielding board is positioned in a manner so that there is both upward and downward light falling on the wall, floor and ceiling areas.

Another new and popular structural lighting technique is luminous ceilings. These can be used in entrance ways, kitchens, dining rooms, bathrooms and recreation rooms - wherever comfortable, glare-free illumination is desirable. The fluorescent lamps are concealed by plastic diffusing panels that are dropped 10 to 12 inches from the ceiling proper. The effect created is one of indoor sunshine.

The 'home fluorescents' are ideal light sources with the added bonus of being more efficient than incandescent bulbs. The light from these fluorescents closely match the light from incandescent bulbs so you are able to combine these two light sources with one complementing the other.

Fluorescent lighting is very versatile in the sense that it can be decorative as well as fulfill a definite role in supplying a great deal of light.

Home air polluted

"The air inside an average home is actually more polluted than the air outside it." This statement comes from Dr. Igho H. Kornbleuh, head of the department of Physical Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania. Included among his list of home air pollutants are the vapors from some household cleaners and polishes, whose cumulative effect on those who inhale them remains unknown.

HOLLAND CHEESE GOES TO A BARBECUE

SUMMER... outdoors... holidays... barbecues. This is the time of year when the outdoor chef comes into his own. Over every piece of open space large enough to hold a single hibachi drifts the great hot charcoal and roasting meat.

Barbecuing remains today what it traditionally was - a male preserve. But it used to be done on a much grander scale than today's backyard hamburger. From Indians on the prairies, people all over the world dug great pits in the ground and filled them with coals to roast whole animals. Even now this method survives in the Hawaiian luau.

Today the Master Chef still has his own way of barbecuing. He may add special herbs, or concoct a secret sauce. But with very little effort, here are a couple of super-specialties which will be popular with the whole family. These and other twists for your summer menu are contained in a new leaflet "Summertime with Holland Cheese" obtainable free from P.O. Box 508, Station F, Toronto, Ontario.

The distinctive red Holland Edam ball and wheel-shaped Gouda cheese travel extremely well. They are completely sealed by a protective coating of wax. Even without refrigeration, this added protection makes them great for camping trips and picnics.

Amsterdam Burgers 2 pounds ground beef

1 egg, onion, chopped and sautéed 1 tablespoon tomato sauce or ketchup

1 10 oz. Imported Holland Baby Gouda Salt and Pepper

Combine beef, egg, onion and tomato sauce. Form 16 thin patties. Cut the Baby Gouda into slices 1/2" thick and large enough to fit on each hamburger patty leaving a 1/4" border. Place cheese on each patty and cover with a second patty sealing the edges together well. Seal the burgers over white hot coals. Raise grill away from fire and cook to desired stage. Indoors, broil 2" away from heat source or pan-fry over a very high heat. Salt and pepper both sides. Serve with corn relish or chutney on hot sesame buns.

"Pig 'n Whistle" Hot Dogs

8 strips bacon 8 hot dog buns 8 frankfurters 8 strips Imported Holland Gouda Cheese mustard

Sauté the bacon until half cooked. Heat buns. Split the frankfurters in half lengthwise nearly all the way through. (Foot long or large size frankfurters make a he-man serving.) Cut strips of Gouda cheese 1/2" thick, 3/4" wide and long enough to fit the frankfurters. Coat the inside of each slit with a thin layer of mustard. Dip style mustard is excellent for this. Stuff frankfurters with cheese strips. Wrap around with the sautéed bacon and fasten with toothpicks. Grill over a barbecue or campfire until the hot dogs and bacon are crisp and cheese is melted. Indoors, broil about 3" from heat until bacon is crisp, cheese bubbles and starts to brown.

For an interesting variation on an old theme, Holland Cheese with hot dogs or hamburgers adds a new and distinctive flavour.

Travel Adventures in

Many Terrace area retail outlets stock souvenirs and mementos of your Pacific Northwest travel adventure but where do you go for something special and less ordinary than a key-chain or ashtray?

There are three places in Terrace that cater to just this need, selling handicraft articles, all hand made and all from the hands of local artists.

THE HOUSE OF SIM-OI-GHETS HIGHWAY 16 WEST

Just three miles from Terrace along the Yellowhead Highway lies the House of Sim-Oi-Ghets situated on the Kitsumkalum Reserve.

The most inclusive of the three, Sim-Oi-Ghets, offers many tourist facilities as well as Indian made crafts. Fishing excursions on twenty foot river-boats are easily arranged and a camp site offers a place to stay.

Inside the House, with its colorful, authentic painted paintings, mural store-front, you are met with an impressive array of beading, paintings, leatherwork, carvings, basketry and so on, all the crafts of the Indian available to you the traveller.

Many articles of clothing, all made by hand, are also available. There are moccasins, muckluks, sweaters, sheep wool coats and much, much more.

The ancient skills of the Indian are used in the making of the many offerings the store has, adding a special touch to the souvenirs you buy.

THE HOUSE OF ROD MSHAN 4550 LAKESE AVE.

In the heart of Terrace, The House of RodMShan offers many locally made works of art.

Velvet paintings with Indian motifs by well-known local artist Jobo, are beautifully done and just right as souvenirs. Locally made jewellery is offered as well as a selection of puppets and marionettes.

Travellers can also find beautiful rock carvings made right here in Terrace.

If you are from out of the country the store also offers authentic mementos of your trip to Canada. Blue Mountain pottery and the simplistic, beautiful Eskimo soap-stone carbins are featured by Rod MShan. You can buy these creations with the assurance there will be no 'Made in Japan' sticker on the bottom.

EDWARD BEAR AND COMPANY TIMBERLAND TRAILER COURT THORNHILL

Across the Skeena River bridge and down along the river lies Queensway Drive and here is the last of the local outlets for authentic crafts.

The recently opened Edward Bear and Company is sited in a small room in the Timberland Trailer Court. Here we find paintings, carvings, bead work, leather work and some beautifully, luxuriant knitted shawls. And these are but a few of the many crafts available.

The costs are phenomenally low due to the co-operative set-up of the store. They offer top quality at low prices.

Open evenings, every night of the week, Edward Bear and Company handles only locally made handicrafts, featuring something for everyone.

ne Pacific Northwest

*The Nass River.
Looking east from the Nass River Bridge*

STEWART

Stewart sits at the head of the Portland Canal, a long narrow channel stretching in from the Pacific along the Alaska-British Columbia border.

Founded in the 1890's by disillusioned miners riding the tail end of the Klondike gold rush, Stewart is home for between twelve and fifteen hundred people. Mining is the corner-stone of the area's economy with Granduc the biggest producer. The company annually builds as many as fifty new homes in the town.

Stewart is one of those rare towns with one foot in the past and its eye on the future. A feeling of optimism and coming richness prevails throughout the town. The same town displays its 1928 Ford fire truck and the Empress Hotel, the town's first, built nearly a century ago.

The old fire hall is being rebuilt as a museum, many of the new duplexes and townhouses are flanked by ancient wooden buildings. Most of the stores are new but here and there among their shiny new-ness stands a high, narrow wooden store, half a century old.

North!

Where you'll find lava, volcanos and miles of mountains

Are you looking for a short summer journey through regions where people are scarce, where the land lays as yet untouched? Are you looking for a smaller scale Alaska Highway adventure without the hordes of other travellers? Here's your chance. The recent completion of the Nass River Bridge in North Western British Columbia has opened much of the province's last frontier to automobile traffic. One such area is Stewart, a mining community set in the splendid mountains of the Coast Range.

The Nass Valley Road, connecting you with this scenic area lies three miles west of Terrace, B.C. and from the thriving young town the trip to Stewart can be made in one day.

THE NASS VALLEY

The Nass Valley Road is the only link with Stewart other than the expensive and limited air and sea services. It's a company road belonging to Columbia Cellulose and they close it to the public Monday through Friday. When the weekend comes, however, its open for all to use and enjoy.

Closely paralleling the Kitsumkalum and Nass Rivers, the road takes you along the floor of the Nass Valley, leaving at times to follow a brief winding hillside route.

The first stop of interest and scenic splendor is Lava Lake, fifty miles from Terrace. At the south end of the lake, on the tall rugged bluffs that line the length of the lake, are very old, original Indian rock paintings.

Lava Lake, too, is an impressive sight; long and narrow, bordered on one side by the bluffs, on the other by lushly forested rolling hills. Here and there a small island thrusts out of the water, adding to the serene beauty of the scene.

The Nass Valley Road winds along the lake for its full five mile length, yards from the water's edge for much of the journey. From a picnic site at the north end enjoy the scenic sweep of the lake, stretched out before you as you relax.

THE LAVA BEDS

Just a few miles north lie the Lava Beds. These long stretches of volcanic jumble are thought to be the youngest in Canada. It was while men explored and settled Eastern Canada's coastline that this volcano last erupted.

From the Lava Beds a trail leads east to the volcano itself. Good, heavy-soled walking shoes are a necessity. Lava can be hard on your feet and a five mile walk is the only way there.

Bear Mountain Glacier

From the Lava Beds the road continues, pulling gradually away from the Kitsumkalum and connecting with the Nass River system, crossing on the Nass River bridge. The road continues north for thirty miles, connecting with the Stewart-Cassiar Highway and the last leg of the trip.

You turn west for Stewart. To the east the Highway continues through northern B.C. terminating in the Yukon's Watson Lake area, a longer trip, through wilder country.

The road to the west climbs through the high mountainous Coast Range, where every mountain seems higher than the last and each has its own glacier or snowfield. Every turn in the road reveals a bigger and more spectacular scenic panorama.

The most spectacular scenery of all unfolds as the road climbs Bear Mountain. At the summit you look down into the canyon below, down at the Bear Mountain Glacier.

Twelve years ago this glacier filled the valley, now it rests on the far side, thirty feet thick, cracked and blue. It's an impressive sight nature offers from that mountain side.

The road plunges down the other side of the mountain, into a narrow canyon. The canyon widens as you draw nearer to Stewart, widening finally into the plains at the head of the Portland Canal.

Your tires bite pavement and you roll into Stewart.

Majestic mountains play hide and seek with the clouds

The trip from Terrace to Stewart can be driven in a day, or if you prefer to ride, a regular bus line has been established.

The bus leaves Terrace Monday and Thursday mornings, arriving in Stewart in time for dinner. Busses leave Stewart Tuesday and Friday early in the afternoon, arriving in Terrace in the mid-evening hours. Fare each way is fifteen dollars.

Accommodations are easily arranged in Terrace with four hotels and a dozen motels, all close to the down-town area. In Stewart two motels and the King Edward Hotel offer their hospitality to weary travellers. The King Edward is newly erected, as modern a hotel as can be found.

Both Terrace and Stewart offer excellent fishing. From Terrace a thirty mile drive in any direction will take you where the 'big ones' are biting.

In Stewart just head out on the Portland Canal. Salmon weighing fifty pounds are not rare in either locale.

On your return to Terrace you may wish to spend a day at the beach. Travel south on Highway 25 and fifteen miles from Terrace you find Lakelse Lake. The lake offers several fine beaches, camping grounds, picnic areas and boat launching facilities.

Two additional miles bring you to the Skoglund Hot Springs. The Hot Springs offer two swimming pools, heated by nature, one public, one for motel guests. Riding horses are also available and the motel features a dining room, a lounge and, in the evening hours, a cabaret.

In Stewart seek your evening's entertainment at the Vienna, Theatre, the Royal Canadian Legion or the Stewart Recreation Center.

Blood donor clinic

Once again the Kinette Club of Terrace is sponsoring the annual Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic. The clinic will be held on August 3rd and 4th this year at the Terrace Hotel - who have most kindly offered the use of their large banquet room free of charge.

Council has declared the week of July 30 to August 5 - "Blood Donor Week" so that the needs of the Red Cross Blood Donor service may be more fully brought to the attention of the community.

Watch the signs for hidden dangers

The Hazardous Products Act was conceived because of the alarming number of reported accidental poisonings due to hazards inherent in many ordinary consumer products. For example, in a single recent year there were nearly 50,000 accidents reported to poison control centres across the country. And the tragic part of this is that 17,000 of them were children under age six.

Given Royal Assent in July, 1969, the Act is considered one of the most important pieces of legislation enacted in recent years, and is a model for other countries.

Under Part I of the Act it is illegal to import, advertise or sell:

Furniture, toys and other articles intended for children which are coated with paints containing harmful amounts of lead.

Varnishes and paints which are highly flammable.

Jewelry, toys, and any toys or jewelry made from them.

Other highly dangerous products can be banned as soon as they are identified.

In addition, under part II of the Act, the manner of selling, advertising, labelling or packaging of some hazardous products can be regulated to minimize the dangers involved.

Since the Act came into effect, considerable research has been done in the preparation of regulations covering various types of consumer products. Following is a list of some of the more prominent which have been promulgated:

Establishment of a symbology warning system for

Wildlife group presses for suit

The real tragedy of the Cherry Point oil spill is that it so aptly demonstrates Canada's loss of control over what happens to their own environment. It is ironic that the B.C. Wildlife Federation and others have struggled for years to save Boundary Bay for wildlife and recreation, only to see the Bay put in jeopardy now by a development across the border.

Twelve years of fighting to preserve the conservation value and recreation potential of the Bay could be nullified in twelve hours by a major oil spill at the Cherry Point refinery.

The small spill that coated beaches at Crescent Beach and White Rock should rouse British Columbians to the much greater hazard our Pacific Coast faces should tankers be permitted to transport oil from Alaska down our coastline to Cherry Point. It is apparent that the oil companies involved are not particularly concerned about what happens to the B.C. coast, and since the U.S. Secretary of the Interior, Rogers Morton has announced his intention to issue a permit for the Trans-Alaska Pipeline, it appears the same thing can be said of the American Federal Government.

David Anderson is fighting through the American courts to ensure that the danger to our Pacific Coast receives adequate consideration. The national conservation organization and Anderson have already won the first round - the right to be heard in an American court. Demeaning us it might be to Canadians to have decisions affecting our environment made on the other side of the border, in this instance fight through the American courts appears to be the most expedient route to stopping the pipeline tanker system.

In granting Canadians' right to intervene the U.S. Court of Appeals noted that "If Cherry Point is selected as a refinery for most or all of the Alaska oil it may be reasonable to anticipate that at least one supertanker a year carrying 8-10,000 tons of crude oil may be expected to run aground". The results would be disastrous for our Pacific Coast.

Funds are urgently needed to pursue the Canadian case through the American courts, and the Wildlife Federation urges that all concerned Canadians give their support to the Canadian Wildlife Federation - David Anderson suit.

Donations can be forwarded to the B.C. Wildlife Federation, 2030 Summer Ave., Burnaby or direct to the Canadian Wildlife Federation, 1419 Carling Ave., Ottawa. By arrangement with the Bank of Montreal residents of the White Rock, Surrey, and Tsawwassen areas can donate through any of the Bank's branches in those districts.

Research and testing continue.

Bicycling for the fun of it

You don't need to be a kid to have fun on a bike these days. More and more Canadians of all ages are finding that bicycling is fast becoming one of the more popular family summer recreations.

Bicycles can range in price from a low of approximately $40.00 for a partially assembled standard model to over $500.00 for the specialized multi-geared machines used for racing. It's up to you to decide how often and for what purpose you plan to use your bike and to spend accordingly.

Buying a bike to "fit" is important. Don't get one with a frame too big for you - you should be able to stand while straddling the bike. A rule of thumb for assessing the proper frame size is your inside leg measurement from crotch to ground minus 10 inches.

Weight is an important consideration for bicycles as well. There are middleweight, lightweight and recreational bikes.

The middleweights with heavy frame and coaster brakes are sturdy and dependable for children's bikes.

Recreational bikes, with a number of gear speeds are popular with adults. They are much lighter than the middleweights but they are also more expensive.

There are the lightweights. These could be called the "sports" models of the bicycle world and may have 5 to 18 gears. Like a sports car, these bikes require practice and skill to handle. Weight in a racing machine is a real guide to quality. A lot of research and experience goes into producing lighter parts, but lightweight bikes have to be well cared for and may not be what you are looking for. The touring or recreational machines are generally slightly heavier than the racing machine with the extra weight in the components making them more robust.

The multi-speed lightweight bikes are fine for an adult rider, but they aren't recommended for most youngsters. Few youngsters under 12 or 13 have the strength and coordination to properly operate a multi-speed model, and besides the lightweights just can't take the type of rougher treatment and heavy knocks most young people give their bikes.

Buying a bike for a child can be difficult. It is better to buy a standard machine for a beginner although the "high rise" machines are best sellers and more attractive to the child because of the gimmicks. Don't let the designs fool you. The design encourages stunting and riding double and that is not only unsafe but against the law as well. A recent warning from the Consumers' Association of Canada states "They are strictly a plaything that is unsafe for use on public roads because the position of the rider on the machine is such that balance and steering are adversely affected."

Boating regs available

OTTAWA - New boating restriction regulations under the Canada Shipping Act, which came into effect on June 28, will provide a means to control the operation of pleasure boats on Canadian waters, Transport Minister Don Jamieson announced today.

The regulations will make it possible for speed limits to be imposed on designated waters and for the use of certain waters to be restricted to specified types of water craft. It will also be possible, in some instances, to prohibit the entry of all boats into designated waters.

The new regulation will provide for police officers or persons designated as peace officers by the Minister of Transport to enforce the regulations. Provision is made for fines of up to $500 for infraction of the new regulations.

Application for enactment of restrictions on boat operations on waterways can be submitted by the various levels of government or by public or private bodies or individuals. The applications must be made to the provincial governments and investigation into the merits of such requests will be handled by an appropriate department which will be designated by each provincial government.

If the provincial authority approves an application, it will be forwarded to the federal Ministry of Transport for authority to be given to the requested restrictions under the new provisions of the Canada Shipping Act.

When an applicant has received the federal authorization, he will be empowered to place signs notifying the boating public of the approved restrictive measures, which may affect the operation and speed of any vessel with regard to matters such as noise nuisance, danger to other craft or to swimmers, and erosion of shore-line by wash from passing boats.

In discussing the new legislation, Mr. Jamieson said that the tremendous increase in the number of pleasure craft in the last decade has resulted in an equal increase in related problems such as those mentioned. Because of rising public demand for means to control these problems, the regulations were being put into effect.

The Provinces of Ontario, British Columbia and Alberta have already designated the departments to which applications for boating operation restrictions can be forwarded.

In B.C. it's: Mr. Lloyd Brooks, Deputy Director, Dept. of Recreation and Conservation, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C.

RCA HOME TV PLAYER-RECORDER -- H. Ray Warren of RCA Consumer Electronics examines the precision tape transport component of a new magnetic tape home TV player-recorder which RCA plans to market to consumers by late 1973.

Mr. Warren heads design and development of the SelectaVision MagTape System, which will permit home TV viewers to watch prerecorded programs, and to record and play back off-the-air programs and TV home movies.

Cassettes for T.V.

It will soon no longer be necessary to make the agonizing choice between watching the hockey game and flicking the TV switch to see your favorite movie star. RCA is working on a magnetic tape color video player which will allow you to watch the game, while recording the movie for later viewing.

The player, using the SelectaVision MagTape system, can also be used to record a TV program while you are away from home for later playback, to view pre-taped programs and to play back home movies on the TV set. And all without modifications being necessary to your TV set.

RCA plans to produce and market the player-recorder by late 1973 and it is designed to be used with TV sets currently installed in North American homes. The main component will be a cartridge about the size of an average hard-cover book containing a tape to allow for one hour's recording and playback. The unit will be attached to the antenna terminals of the TV set.

Roy Phillips, RCA vice-president, says: "The principal feature of the SelectaVision MagTape system which will make it attractive to consumers are its design for exceptional performance, reliable operation and low cost."

The pre-recorded tapes which can be played over the system can carry all kinds of entertainment, as well as specialized features such as educational programs.

Initially, a black-and-white camera will be available for the recording for instant playback of birthday parties and similar home movie scenes. However, RCA is developing for future introduction a low-cost color camera.

The movies will be converted to magnetic tape for sound playback through the system.

The system has a built-in timer that permits off-air recording of regularly broadcast TV programs even when the set owner is away from home. It is also equipped so that the viewer can watch one program on his set and record for later playback.

another program being broadcast over a different channel at the same time.

Robert C. Bitting, RCA division vice-president, SelectaVision Business Development, says that the design and engineering of the MagTape system has focussed on achieving a product that will generate a high degree of consumer acceptance. He cited these highlights of its operation:

—In-cartridge scanning unit simplifies the tape transport mechanism, providing positive tape control and enhanced performance.

—Operation with existing TV receivers without modification, simply by attaching the unit to the set's antenna terminals.

—A highly simplified mechanism and modular electronics package with fewer parts and components than other systems announced to date.

—Stereo TV sound capability. Meanwhile, two other companies Bell & Howell &

Magnavox have selected the RCA system.

Bell and Howell will manufacture the precision tape component of the system for RCA and will also make the component available to others in the industry.

Magnavox says it plans to integrate its low-cost color camera with the RCA system and make it available to other manufacturers.

Softball report

Only two games were played in the Terrace Men's Softball League last week due to weather problems. Last Monday night saw Formol Electric get back on the winning tack by dousing the Pilots 12-2.

Then Sunday evening Sharples Equipment met A & W and showed them who was best clobbering the Drive-in team 16-0.

Meanwhile plans are being finalized for an Invitational Tournament to take place here in Terrace. Played off over the first weekend in August the Softball Association is hoping for teams from Kitimat, Prince Rupert and the Bulkley Valley. First prize for the two day softball fest will be $200.

More details will be available after the next meeting of the League which was held last night.

Camping should be the cheapest, most enjoyable way to travel. Unfortunately for some campers it is not.

Through carelessness or poor planning they transform a potentially inexpensive, carefree trip into a costly nightmare.

How do they accomplish this transformation? Mainly by a series of little things:

Forgetting belongings. It's almost a certainty anything put out of sight will be forgotten. Always set things where you'll fall over them as you leave the washroom. Setting the bottle of shampoo on top of the shower stall virtually means it will have to be replaced. Hanging the wash cloth over the showerstall is a good way to dispense with a washcloth. The surest way to cut down on the cost of toiletries and other washroom items is to buy shampoo, soap, toothpaste, etc. in the smallest quantities possible; or else buy them in large quantities but transfer only a small portion at a time to a plastic container. Leave the supply bottle in the car; take only the plastic container to the washroom. Then if you forget the item, you'll lose only a portion of your supply. Instead of buying new towels and washcloths for the trip, take along the oldest, most worn towels you own. Losing an old, thin towel is less painful. Leaving items behind at the camp space, such as bath mats left in the grass where you took a sun bath, or an axe left sticking in a stump.

Before vacating any camp space, check the area carefully not only for overlooked axes, tent pegs, kids' toys, etc., but also for stray litter -- gum wrappers, paper towels, Kleenex, bottle caps, cigarette butts. You'll earn a Courteous Camper decal in the memory of the campsite operator if you leave your camp space neat and tidy.

Waiting until the gas gauge says Empty before refueling. Buy gas whenever your gauge shows one quarter full, or even before. Particularly on highways such as Yellowhead 16 where services are distant, why risk inconveniencing your family. Since you'll have to buy gas anyhow, buying it well in advance of necessity makes sense.

Leaving trailer and camper doors unlocked. Be especially careful if you have young children riding in the back of the camper. Recently a Kitimat trailer circled our yard with its door banging open. Besides wrecking the door and the hinges, its possible they might have lost some loose items that could have been sitting on the floor.

By failing to practice driving their camper or towing their trailer or tent trailer before beginning their vacation trip. In the past week I've had two tent trailers put on a demonstration of poor manoeuvred for five minutes trying to back their rigs out of our driveway, rather than circle past the office. Besides making the job of driving a tent trailer look impossible, they managed to block the entrance driveway for several minutes. If they were to get into trouble like this in a busy city intersection they could create a regular traffic jam.

Making no effort to check out their proposed route to anticipate the campsites ahead. Procure a copy of the B.C. Directory, available from any Chamber of Commerce or directly from Department of Travel Industry.

Victoria, B.C. This directory lists all the approved campgrounds in B.C. along with their number of spaces, the facilities each offers, and their rates. Why be guilty of cluttering up the driveway of an expensive private campground when all you're willing to pay is the $2.00 a night charged by Provincial campgrounds? Far better to avoid expensive campsites than to stir the disapproval of private campsite operators and their customers who decry sightseers.

Mechanics, drivers, club officials Northwest Auto Racers track. All they're all there out finishing the that's left now is the paving.

Stockers getting it together ready to pave

Everyone's hard at work at the Northwest Auto Racers racing site getting ready for the belated start to the 1972 season. All that remains to be done is touch-up work and paving of the track. Hopefully this will happen this weekend, leaving the way open for the season's opening later this month. The group has been working on the track for several months now, laying it out, installing a chain link fence and grading the turns.

The straightways on the new track will be about four hundred feet long enabling the drivers to reach higher speeds, while the corners are banked between 10 and 15 degrees.

Racing is planned for every weekend the weather is nice. The Racers Association will be holding a very important meeting next Monday evening at 8 p.m. At the meeting, to be held at the Thornhill Golf and Country Club, registration of all divers and cars will take place.

The meeting is open to the general public. Any questions about the racing season will be answered at this time.

57 - Automobiles

Are you a week-end mechanic with nothing to mechanic on? How about this. A nineteen sixty-four Rambler Ambassador, the top of the American Motors line for that year. This car has all the luxuries such as tires, an engine and two ash-trays in the front seat. The seat covers are new and there are only two or three major things wrong with the car and a dozen minor things. The major things: it needs a valve job and the front end has to be rebuilt from scratch (almost). It is running at present and will run for quite a while. It's fairly good on gas and oil and has three new tires. Will sell or trade, you suggest a price. Call 635-6357 9-5 p.m. and ask for Mark. (STF)

CONTRACT NO. 1 - GENERAL

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed tenders, marked "Tender for Bridge Project No. 773: Kitsumkalum River Bridge: Contract No. 1 - General", will be received by the Minister of Highways in his office at the Parliament Buildings, Victoria, British Columbia, up to 2:00 p.m. (Pacific Daylight Saving Time) on Wednesday the 9th day of August, 1972, and opened in public at that time and date. Tenders should be delivered to Room 237, Douglas Building, Victoria, British Columbia.

The Contract consists of the construction complete of a 381 foot bridge with either prestressed concrete or steel girder superstructure and a reinforced concrete deck. The substructure is of reinforced concrete with the piers being supported on untreated timber piles.

Plans, specifications, and conditions of tender may be obtained from the Provincial Government Plan Viewing Room, 108-501 West 12th Avenue, Vancouver 9, British Columbia, (telephone 879-7531), or from the undersigned for the sum of $10.00 (cheque or money-order made payable to the Minister of Finance) which is not refundable. All copies purchased are registered and amendments are forwarded when issued.

No tender will be accepted or considered which contains an escalator clause or any other qualifying conditions and the lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

Compliance with W.C.B. Regulations shall be a requirement of the contract.

Interested parties will be shown the area on July 27th with submission of tenders by August 1, 1972.

Lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted. Contact the Forest Ranger at Kitimat for further information if interested. (C-82)

Tenders will be accepted up until August 7, 1972 at 2:00 p.m. for the transportation of 25 students from Canyon City Reserve to New Aiyansh Indian Day School, return, 60 miles per diem commencing September 5, 1972 to June 30, 1973. (C-82, 83, 85)

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

Estate of Donald M. MORRISON, deceased, late of 1370 Burrard St., Vancouver, B.C.

Creditors and others having claims against the said estate are hereby required to send them duly verified, to the PUBLIC TRUSTEE, 635 Burrard St., Vancouver, B.C., before the 9th day of August, 1972, after which date the assets of the said Estate will be distributed, having regard only to claims that have been received.

CLINTON W. FOOTE, PUBLIC TRUSTEE
(C-76, 78, 82)

B.C.'s lawyers have announced a new voluntary program to assist secondary schools and teachers interested in extending the teaching of matters relating to laws and our court system. The program also will provide counselling services to those students who are interested in legal or para legal careers after completing high school.

Under the program, lawyers would be made available to attend classes and answer students' questions or give lectures on aspects of law of particular interest to the students. Initiated through the Legal Profession Information and Community Relations Committee, the program has the support of both the Law Society of British Columbia and the B.C. Branch Canadian Bar Association.
